Pre-monsoon rain disrupts normal life

Mysuru receives 119 mm of rainfall; IMD predicts heavy rain, thundershowers, gusty winds till May 24

A goods vehicle toppled on the waterlogged Outer Ring Road yesterday. Fortunately, the driver escaped unhurt and there were no other passengers in the vehicle.

Mysuru, May 20 (RK, KS, AG & BCT)- Pre-monsoon rainfall has gained momentum, with moderate to heavy rains lashing parts of Mysuru, Mandya, Kodagu and Chamarajanagar over the last few days.

Mysuru city experienced heavy rains intermittently throughout the day from 9 am yesterday, resembling the monsoon season in the Malnad region. Thankfully, the temperature was reduced considerably.

Burglary bid goes awry

Carpenter injured while escaping from Professor's house

Mysuru, May 20 (KS)- They say old habits die hard and this rings true for a carpenter in Mysuru who couldn't resist the urge to steal despite receiving counselling and guidance.

In a tale of persistence in crime, this carpenter attempted to burgle the house of a Professor who had advised him to abandon his criminal ways. However, his endeavour ended abruptly as he was caught red-handed during the burglary attempt and sustained serious injuries while trying to escape by jumping from the building.

The incident occurred at Manasinagar on Saturday, at the residence of Dr. Balaji, a Professor at a college in the city. The carpenter, identified as Ravi, has been admitted to the hospital with serious injuries.

Ravi had been hired for carpentry work at Dr. Balaji's residence. Since Ravi resided elsewhere and commuted daily for work, Dr. Balaji had provided him with accommodation within the house premises for convenience.

It has been revealed that Ravi had been involved in theft on three previous occasions and had been arrested.

Rs. 92 lakh lies in District Treasury

Sculptors use personal money to carve D. Devaraj Urs statue

Funds cannot be released unless 10% of work is completed: Nirmiti Kendra Project Officer

Devaraj Urs

Mysuru, May 20 (GA&BCT)- Sculpting work has begun on installing a statue of former Chief Minister and pioneer of backward class development D. Devaraj Urs, in the premises of the new Deputy Commissioner's Office in Siddarthanagar, Mysuru. The statue is expected to be unveiled on Aug. 20, the occasion of D. Devaraj Urs Jayanti.

This statue project is a collaborative effort between the District Administration and the Kannada and Culture Department, at an estimated cost of Rs. 92 lakh. The statue will stand 12 feet tall, sculpted from black granite by Mysuru's renowned sculptor Arun Yogiraj and his elder brother Suryaprakash Yogiraj.

Deputy Commissioner Dr. K.V. Rajendra, MLC A.H. Vishwanath, MLA Tanveer Sait and Congress leader Suraj Hegde (third from right), grandson of the late former CM D. Devaraj Urs, jointly performing 'bhoomi puja' for Urs statue on Feb. 19, 2024 at the new Deputy Commissioner's Office in Siddarthanagar. Also seen are ZP CEO K.M. Gayathri and District Kannada Sahitya Parishat former President M. Chandrashekar.

However, the sculpting work has begun not with Government funds but from the personal funds of Suryaprakash Yogiraj. Although Rs. 92 lakh has been earmarked for the statue, the sculptors are yet to receive any money from the Government.

Thermocol replica

Suryaprakash Yogiraj told Star of Mysore that the sculpting work on the statue has commenced with a personal expense of around Rs. 6 to Rs. 7 lakh. A thermocol replica of the statue is about 90 percent complete and it has been designed after analysing hundreds of photos of the former CM from various angles.

THE MATURE STAGE OF YOGA: Mind is the root cause of all our actions. A well-controlled mind will achieve self-realisation. It denotes that the mind is fickle and unsteady and will not stay in anything, including 'Aatman.' When the wind blows, a lamp will flicker and will not glow. The subdued mind of a person who practices yoga should be like a lamp that does not flicker in a windless place.

One who fixes his mind in self-realisation will wipe out his sins. When sins are eliminated, the Rajas and Thamas (mental darkness and ignorance) qualities in him will diminish. With their disappearance, the perception of considering this physical body as the soul (Deha-Aatma brantham) will go off and the yogi will enjoy ever blissful supreme happiness.

In verses 29 to 32 in Chapter VI, Sri Krishna explains to Arjuna the mature stage of yoga, which consists of four degrees: He whose mind is fixed in yoga sees equality everywhere; To that person who sees God in every self and every self in God — the Lord says that He is not lost to him; The yogi who worships fixing his mind in oneness abides in Him; He who sees the similarity of selves and sees the pleasure and pain as the same is deemed as the highest. —In The Hindu

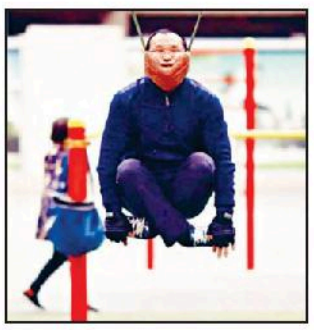
Ants play dead to avoid predators

Sydney: Researchers studying various species of animals on Australia's Kangaroo Island stumbled upon a colony of Polyrhachis femorata ants that they believed was dead until one of its members moved slightly.

Feigning death or tonic immobility is a well-documented defense mechanism observed in dozens of animal species, from insects and lizards to birds and mammals. Some of these natural actors are better than others at playing dead, but what they all have in common is implying this particular defense strategy on an individual basis. However, in what many consider a world-first, a team of researchers encountered an entire colony of dozens of ants that all played dead at the same time when threatened. And they all played their part so well, contorting their bodies in unnatural positions and remaining completely still, that the team was convinced they were all dead.

Man dies during controversial exercise



Beijing: A man recently lost his life while performing a controversial type of exercise that requires practitioners to hang only by their chins to relieve neck and spine pain by reducing pressure on nerves.

On May 15, a 57-year-old Chinese man lost his life while hanging from his neck on an outdoor neck swing at an outdoor fitness corner in Chengxi Town, Chongqing. Police confirmed the man's death as a result of neck hanging and eyewitnesses declared that he allegedly rested his neck on the swing instead of his chin, before swinging his body. Someone else suggested that he might have used too much force when swinging his body. Whatever his mistake, it proved deadly.

VOICE OF THE READER

Traffic Cops must book all kinds of violators

Sir,

Despite the diligent efforts of our Traffic Police, there persists a significant number of blatant violations of traffic rules by habitual rules violators, one of the most concerning being the improper display of vehicle registration number plates.

According to the Motor Vehicles Act (MV Act, 1989), specifically Rule 50 and 51, there are clear specifications regarding the size, font and location of both front and rear letters and numerals on vehicle number plates. The act explicitly prohibits fancy lettering and the display of names, pictures or any other art on the number plate.

Unfortunately, it is common to find vehicles on the road with fancy lettering and numerals of varying sizes, making it difficult for enforcement officers and bystanders to decipher the registration numbers.

Additionally, many two-wheelers are observed without any number plate at all, posing a serious challenge in identifying and penalising offenders in case of accidents or violations.

In instances where a vehicle with an illegible number plate is involved in an accident, bystanders face significant challenges in recording the registration number, allowing the erring riders to evade legal consequences.

Despite having well-defined rules and regulations aimed at promoting traffic discipline, there appears to be a gap in implementation due to a lackadaisical approach by the authorities.

There should be more proactive approach from the Traffic Police, not only in conducting customary checks for helmet-less riders but also in systematically verifying vehicles for compliance with all regulations, including proper display of registration number plates.

Addressing this issue will not only enhance road safety but also contribute to the overall discipline and orderliness of our traffic system.

Krishnegowda, humourist, columnist & writer and late Chayapathi's daughter Pratibha Chayapathi (Publisher, Talukina Venkannaiah Smaraka Granthamale, Bengaluru).

Mysuru, May 20 (MTY&TRR)- "Today, we are living in a situation where people are not committed to any fixed principles or ideologies. Instead, they are creating their own according to their way of living," lamented humourist, columnist and writer Prof. M. Krishnegowda.

"Since it has become difficult to live according to fixed ideologies and principles, people are making their own," he added.

He was speaking at the event jointly organised by Talukina Venkannaiah Smaraka Granthamale, Bengaluru, Kannada Sahitya Kalakoota, Mysuru and Hoysala Kannada Sangha, Mysuru, at the Institution of Engineers-India (IEI) on JLB Road in city yesterday to present 'Prakashaka T.S. Chayapathi Samskruti Puraskara-2024.' and release four books published by Talukina Venkannaiah Smaraka Granthamale.

The Kannada books released on the occasion were 'Mooru Talemaru' authored by Ta.Su. Shamaraya, 'Nooraru Nudigattugalu' authored by Dr. Nilagiri M. Talawar, 'Srijanasheelaru' authored by T.S. Lakshmidevi and 'Shabda Sopana' authored by R. Dileep Kumar.

Differing ideologies, principles

Prof. Krishnegowda noted that in the present day, individuals craft their philosophies of life to suit their lifestyles. They create their ideologies and principles according to their whims and fancies, rather than adhering to the high principles and ideologies prescribed by elders in the past.

"Even the intention behind creating literature has changed of late. Earlier, writing poetry and literature was deemed a sacred endeavour that led one to salvation. Literature was considered a means to discover the truth. But now, the purpose of creating literature has shifted. It is seen as a medium to narrate the injustices and inequalities present in society," he noted.

Widening scope of literature

The scope of literature is widening, though this expansion is not extending to other art forms and remains limited to literature. Writers who were at the forefront of the Navodaya Literature Movement created works that exhibited great dignity and their lifestyles mirrored this dignity. They lived lives more dignified than their literature. However, times have changed. Today, it is perceived that the writer is not important; only his writings matter," said Prof. Krishnegowda.

He concluded by noting that earlier writers were never under the influence of political parties or leaders. They criticised them frankly and fearlessly. Presently, publishing houses are losing the confidence of the people and are indulging in corruption.

Dr. H.B. Rajashekar, Director, Rajashekar Medical Foundation, Mysuru, who presided over the event, conferred 'Prakashaka T.S. Chayapathi Samskruti Puraskara-2024' on Prof. Mallepuram G. Venkatesh, retd. Vice-Chancellor, Karnataka Sanskrit University, Bengaluru.

Prof. Morabada Mallikarjuna, Director, Publication Division, JSS Mahavidyapeetha, spoke about the books released on the occasion.

Manasa, Chairman, Kannada Book Authority, Bengaluru, was the chief guest. M. Chandrashekar, President, Kannada Sahitya Kalakoota, Mysuru, delivered the keynote address.

Pratibha Chayapathi, Publisher, Talukina Venkannaiah Smaraka Granthamale and Ranganath Mysore, Secretary, Hoysala Kannada Sangha, Mysuru, were present.

Though there was a brief respite, heavy rains resumed at 3 pm for over 45 minutes and continued into the night. As a result, normal weekend life was disrupted, with people stuck in traffic.

Being a holiday due to Sunday, many Mysureans had planned outings with their families and tourists had arrived in the city from neighbouring places. However, their plans were thwarted by the rains, with people hoping for a break in the weather to visit tourist spots. The continuous rains after 3 pm changed the entire scenario, putting a damper on their plans.

The continuous downpour also hit businesses, especially roadside vendors near Dufferin Clock Tower, Sayyaji Rao Road, and Makkaji Chowk, fruit, vegetables, and other traders in Devaraja Market waited for customers until late evening. Those selling chaat and other eatables in the evening also saw minimal business due to the weather.

Houses flooded

Several houses in B.M. Sri Nagar, under Ward 4 in MCC Zone 5, were flooded. The MCC's Abhaya team rushed to the spot, cleared the clogged drains and ensured the smooth flow of rainwater. Meanwhile, residents of Ashraya Houses in Nachanahalli Palya faced issues with the Underground Drainage (UGD) system, leading to flooding. MCC staff managed to temporarily resolve the problem.

In other low-lying areas like Bharath Nagar, Kurimandi and Kesare, a few houses were also flooded, causing significant inconvenience to residents. The situation was exacerbated by frequent power cuts and disruptions in telephone and internet services. Fortunately, no major damages or loss of life were reported across the city.

Response efforts

The MCC's Abhaya teams, along with the Horticulture Division and officials from CESC, are patrolling the city to identify and rectify rain-related problems on the spot. Due to the lack of gusty winds, thunder and lightning, there were no major incidents of tree falls or damage to electric poles. However, a few branches fell in Vidyaranpuram, and the Abhaya-2 team promptly cleared them, ensuring smooth passage for vehicles. Civil and Traffic Police personnel are also patrolling the city to prevent any rain-related issues.

Goods vehicle topples on Ring Road

Heavy rains caused numerous issues for motorists, particularly on the Outer Ring Road (ORR), where parts of the road resembled swimming pools due to accumulated rainwater.

A portion of the heritage arch opposite Sub-Urban Bus Stand which was damaged a few months ago, still awaits restoration.

Near IPS Srinivasan Nagar, a goods vehicle toppled on the waterlogged road. Although the driver escaped unhurt, the vehicle sustained damage in the incident.

Fortunately, there were no further problems for other vehicles, confirmed Siddarthanagar Traffic Police.

Low visibility and vehicle issues

The cloudy sky and continuous drizzling resulted in poor visibility, prompting motorists to switch on their headlights to illuminate the road and alert vehicles from the opposite direction.

Some bikes and autorickshaws broke down, with their owners seen pushing them towards repair shops. However, since it was Sunday, most mechanics had closed their shops.

Even few repair shops that typically operated on Sundays remained closed due to rain, leaving vehicle owners to search for alternative repair options. A few mechanics were observed repairing autorickshaws in rain near arch, opposite Sub-Urban Bus Stand.

IMD predicts rains, gusty winds, thunder-showers till May 24

According to data released this morning at 8:30 by the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre (KSNDMC), Mysuru received 119 mm rainfall yesterday, Kodagu 71 mm, Mandya 69 mm, and Chamarajanagar 72 mm.

The KSNDMC has issued an orange alert, forecasting that south interior Karnataka is likely to experience isolated heavy to very heavy rainfall, ranging from 115.5 mm to 204.5 mm, between May 19 and 21, indicating a surge in pre-monsoon activity. It reported that wet spells and isolated heavy rainfall, accompanied by thunderstorms, lightning and gusty winds, are very likely to continue until May 21.

The Indian Meteorological Department (IMD) has predicted heavy rain and thunder-showers, accompanied by gusty winds (40-50 kmph), in Mysuru, Chamarajanagar, Mandya, Kodagu, and Ramanagara districts on May 20 (today), May 21 (tomorrow), and May 22 (Wednesday). This weather pattern is likely to persist until May 24.

Barricades near Sub-Urban Bus Stand arch cause traffic jams

Mysuru, May 20 (RK&KS)- The efforts of the Traffic Police to regulate vehicles near the arch opposite the Sub-Urban Bus Stand inadvertently resulted in vehicles getting stranded in the rain yesterday.

Devaraja Traffic Police had barricaded both sides of the arch. Vehicles travelling from the Irwin Road side towards Mini Vidhana Soudha were directed to take a left turn, perform a 'U' turn at Five Lights Circle, then proceed towards the Sub-Urban Stand before finally taking a left turn towards Mini Vidhana Soudha.

This diversion strategy led to traffic jams near the exit of the Sub-Urban Bus Stand, where buses depart to various destinations. Vehicles were stranded for over 20 minutes, with two-wheeler riders enduring the inconvenience of being stuck in the rain. Given that it was Sunday, vehicular traffic was heavier than usual, particularly near the Sub-Urban Bus Stand. The Traffic Police's barricading efforts inadvertently contributed to the traffic jams.

Despite the challenging conditions, Traffic Police worked diligently to manage the traffic flow, ensuring a smooth passage for vehicles. Their efforts were commendable as they braved the rains to maintain order on the roads.

However, there were instances of two-wheeler riders displaying reckless behaviour, posing potential risks of accidents. Additionally, KSRTC buses faced difficulties exiting the Sub-Urban Bus Stand due to traffic congestion.

No fire safety for Mysore Palace

Mysuru, May 20 (BLU&DM)- The world-famous Mysore Palace, over a century old and attracting lakhs of visitors, surprisingly lacks fire safety measures, raising concerns over the conservation of priceless art, valuables paintings and other paraphernalia associated with the Mysore royal heritage.

Despite the illumination of the Palace with over one lakh incandescent bulbs during Dasara and other occasions, necessary fire safety precautions have not been taken. Even though the Fire and Emergency Services Department has offered to provide fire safety, the Mysore Palace Board and successive State Governments have reportedly shown disinterest by not responding.

The illumination of Mysore Palace began in 1942 during the rule of Jayachamaraja Wadiyar, originally using 30-watt bulbs mounted on teak wood planks. These have since been replaced with 15-watt bulbs supported by a network of power cables.

A spark from a short circuit could quickly ignite the wooden planks, making fire tenders crucial in rapidly extinguishing any flames to prevent a major disaster.

The Wooden Palace succumbed to fire in 1897, leading to its reconstruction with bricks and cement. However, even today, 20 percent of the Palace structure contains wood, including quality teak used for steps, doors, pillars and more.

In the event of a fire, authorities must call fire tenders from distant stations, increasing response time. With the fire's rapid spread, there's an urgent need for permanent fire tender deployment at the Palace. While some fire extinguishers are present, they are insufficient to contain a major fire quickly.

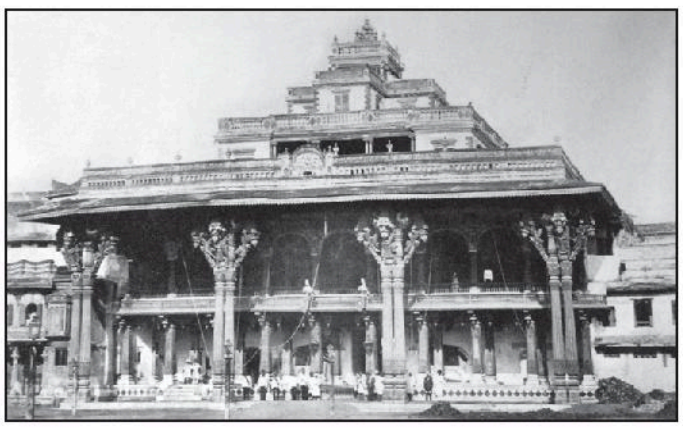
Will seek information: Deputy Commissioner

Dr. K.V. Rajendra

Deputy Commissioner Dr. K.V. Rajendra, who is also the Palace Board Executive Officer, stated that he would seek input from officials regarding any prior correspondence regarding fire emergency services for the Palace.

Emphasising the importance of having a permanent fire tender stationed at the Palace to address fire emergencies, he pledged to take appropriate action based on feedback from his subordinates.

Wooden Palace got burnt down in 1897



The history of Mysore Palace dates back to 1799 when it was initially constructed out of wood by Mummadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar, who had made Srirangapatna the capital of the Wadiyars.

However, following the destruction of the Srirangapatna Palace by a British official in 1799, Mummadi transported the dismantled wood to Mysuru to build a magnificent Palace at the current site. The cost of building the wooden Palace then amounted to Rs. 7,41,816.

The wedding of Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar's elder sister Jayalakshmammanni with M. Kantharaje Urs took place in this Wooden Palace. An accident occurred during the wedding when a domestic help negligently discarded hot coal, igniting a fire that engulfed the entire Palace. Despite the efforts of fire tenders rushed from Bengaluru, it took three days to extinguish the flames, resulting in extensive damage.

Following this, Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar initiated the construction of a new Palace using bricks and cement at the same location, starting in October 1897. The construction was completed in 1907, with the official 'Gruha Pravesha' ceremony taking place on June 5, 1907. However, the full completion of the Palace occurred in 1912, with the total cost amounting to Rs. 41,47,913.

ATM fire on May 11, 2017

The Palace experienced its second fire incident on May 11, 2017, when a fire broke out at the ATM counter located at the entrance gate due to a short circuit.

By the time fire tenders from the Saraswathipuram fire station arrived, the fire had already engulfed the entire ATM structure, causing significant damage to the architectural and heritage design of the Palace entrance.

This incident prompted concerns among the public, who felt that having a fire tender stationed at the spot could have mitigated the damage.

When C. Shikha, serving as the Deputy Commissioner and also holding the position of Palace Board Executive Officer, had initiated efforts to improve fire safety at the Palace. However, progress stalled after her transfer in 2016.

Ready to provide fire tenders, staff 24x7 says fire safety officer

District Fire and Emergency Services Officer K.P. Gururaj stated that the Department is prepared to offer fire safety services to the Palace. However, they have not received any proposal from the Palace Board regarding this matter. Once the proposal is accepted, the Department will arrange for the stationing of a fire tender and deploy staff 24x7.

Despite having prepared a comprehensive report outlining necessary measures for Palace fire safety in 2018, the Palace Board responded that there was no provision for constructing a new shelter to station a fire tender within the Palace premises, he said.

K.P. Gururaj

Gururaj highlighted the importance of such arrangements, citing similar provisions at significant Government buildings in Bengaluru like Vidhana Soudha, Vikasa Soudha and the High Court.

"A stone has been identified in a quarry in Mullur, Chamarajanagar and the carving work is already underway. It has been three months since the foundation stone was laid, but no funds have yet been received from the Government. Despite this, we have started the work with our own money," Suryaprakash Yogiraj said.

The demand for a statue of Devaraj Urs, who was from Mysore, has been longstanding among fans and followers. Initially, the plan was to install the Urs statue at the junction of D. Devaraj Urs Road and JLB Road. However, due to unforeseen circumstances, the execution of this plan was delayed.

'No issue with funds'

Dr. M.D. Sudarshan, Assistant Director of the Kannada and Culture Department, stated that there is no issue with the release of funds. "Our Department has transferred Rs. 92 lakh in a single instalment to the Nirmiti Kendra. Now, the complete responsibility lies with the Nirmiti Kendra," he said.

However, Mahesh Kumar, the Project Officer of Nirmiti Kendra, has a different version. He said that the complete funding for the statue's construction is with the district treasury. As per regulations, no funds have been released for any work, including to the sculptors, so far. The sculptors have prepared the thermocol replica and selected the stone. The funds will be released once 10 percent of the statue is carved, he explained.

To be completed by Aug. 20

Zakir Hussain, State President of the D. Devaraj Urs Statue Installation Committee, said that the pedestal work has been completed in Bengaluru. He mentioned that the names to be inscribed on it will be decided upon the Deputy Commissioner's instruction. The installation is scheduled to be completed by Aug. 20.

"We are gathering information about each stage of the statue's construction. The sculptors have prepared a thermocol replica of the statue and selected the stone. They have started the work at their own expense. However, due to the strict regulations of the Nirmiti Kendra, the funds have not been released to them yet. The funds will be released soon. The statue is expected to be unveiled on August 20, on the occasion of Devaraj Urs' Jayanti," he said.

Mysuru, May 20 (SBD&KS) - A woman riding her scooter lost her gold mangalsutra after two chain snatchers on a bike made her fall before snatching her 50-gram gold chain and speeding away on the Uttanahalli Ring Road on Saturday.

The woman, identified as 29-year-old Namitha, works as a receptionist at a private Ayurveda Centre on Lalithadripura Road and resides in Hosahundi village on the outskirts of the city. She was on her way home around 7:15 pm when the incident occurred.

As she proceeded on the Service Road, the two individuals on the bike positioned themselves in front of her scooter. In an attempt to escape, Namitha accelerated her scooter.

Dr. Balaji had counselled him to abstain from such activities and focus on his craftsmanship, which offered ample opportunities for earning a livelihood, given his skill.

Dr. Balaji had also cautioned Ravi that further incidents of theft would result in Police cases. Following his promise to mend his ways, Ravi refrained from stealing and diligently focused on his carpentry tasks, earning the trust of Dr. Balaji and his family.

However, not renouncing his old habits, Ravi managed to obtain a duplicate key to the house and attempted burglary when Dr. Balaji came to his house unexpectedly. Upon discovering the unlocked door, despite having secured it before leaving, Dr. Balaji suspected a break-in and promptly alerted the Police, urging them to hurry and arrest the culprits.

When the Police arrived, Dr. Balaji accompanied them into the house. Upon seeing the Police and Dr. Balaji entering, Ravi attempted to escape by tying a bed sheet to the iron grills of the balcony. Unfortunately, he fell from the balcony, sustaining serious injuries in the process.

Hearing the commotion, both the Police and Dr. Balaji rushed outside, only to find Ravi bleeding from the head and writhing in pain. The Police took Ravi into custody and arranged for his immediate admission to the hospital.

Mysuru Rural Police have registered a case and are currently awaiting Ravi's recovery. Once his treatment is completed, they plan to take him into custody again for further questioning.

RTO servers unresponsive; work halted for four days

Mysuru, May 20 (SPN&VNS)- Problems persisted at Regional Transport Offices (RTOs) in Mysuru for over four days due to recurring server issues, a common occurrence in the Transport Department.

Despite the Department's announcement on its 'Sarathi' website that services would resume on Thursday, the deadline was extended until 10 am on Saturday. Despite widespread media coverage about the service resumption, disappointed citizens found that server issues remained unresolved when they visited various RTOs across the State.

Under new guidelines, several RTO services must be availed online along with the payment of prescribed fees. However, due to persistent server issues, all RTO services were unavailable for four days. Reports on Monday, however, said that the servers were functioning normally.

From Thursday till Saturday, processes such as vehicle registrations, issuance of new driver's licences, and other services came to a halt. Every day, the RTO processes approximately 150 to 200 applications at the Taluk Centre, 400 to 500 at the District Headquarters, and nearly 1,450 at various RTOs in Bengaluru.

When contacted on Saturday, Transport Commissioner A.M. Yogeesh dismissed claims of server issues, stating that people were being misled. He urged individuals facing problems to directly approach the concerned officials for assistance.

However, frustrated citizens visiting RTO criticised the authorities for their inaction in resolving the server issue. "The server problems at the RTOs seem never-ending. We endure long queues for days just to pay fees, and officials fail to provide adequate information about the situation," lamented Prasanna, a customer.

WORD OF THE DAY

Sequester

Pronunciation: sih-KWESS-ter (Verb)
Meaning: To sequester a person or group is to keep them separate or apart from other people. Sequester is also often used to mean "to bind or absorb (carbon dioxide) as part of a larger chemical process or compound."
Origin: Sequester is a word that has important legal and scientific uses, and a long history besides. In fact, it can be traced back to the Latin preposition secus, meaning, well, "beside" or "alongside." Setting someone or something apart (figuratively "to the side") from the rest is sequester's raison d'être. We frequently hear it in the context of the courtroom, as juries are sometimes sequestered for the safety of their members or to prevent the influence of outside sources on a verdict. It is also possible, legally speaking, to sequester property — sequester can mean both "to seize" and "to deposit" property by a writ of sequestration. The scientific sense of sequester most often encountered these days has to do with the binding or absorption of carbon. Kelp forests, for example, sequester massive amounts of carbon dioxide during photosynthesis, keeping it "apart" from the atmosphere — by some estimates doing so twenty times as much as terrestrial forests. You might even say kelp's got this sequestering thing locked up.
Example: "When sea otters were reintroduced to an Alaskan island, they ... led to the return of offshore kelp. As well as harbouring hundreds of biodiverse species, these towering algal forests also sequester carbon." —Lucy Cooke, Scientific American, 1 Nov. 2023

THE ODD WORD

to throw violently into the air; especially, to throw (a frog) into the air from the end of a stick

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Burning the Midnight Oil

Meaning: The phrase 'burning the midnight oil' implies working overtime and working over normal standards.
Origin: Though this is a very old phrase, since oil lamps have become almost redundant today, it is still commonly used. It simply means working hard doing something late at night. However, nowadays, it also implies sleep deprivation, which is considered very unhealthy.
Example: "The assignment was very difficult, so I was forced to burn the midnight oil to get it done on time"

QUOTE BOX

"It is only when we take chances that our lives improve. The initial and the most difficult risk we need to take is to become honest."

—Walter Anderson

DC felicitates SSLC toppers

Mysuru, May 20 (DM)- Deputy Commissioner Dr. K.V. Rajendra felicitated 10 top ranking SSLC students of the district at a function organised in the DC's office premises here on Friday.

Speaking on the occasion, Dr. Rajendra said that SSLC is a crucial stage in the life of every student. Asking the students to maintain the tempo of success as a bridge to reach their set target, he said that their performance has led to more expectations from them in the future days. Continuing, the DC said that 10th standard is an important phase in a student's life and stressed that students have to tread the path of reaching their goal at this stage itself.

Pointing out that students should not stop at securing ranks, the DC said that it is important to continue making constant efforts for achieving success in career and life.

Having a word of caution for the students as they enter the college phase after SSLC, he underlined the need for cultivating good habits and keeping away from bad habits and addictions.

Calling upon the students to engage themselves in sporting and other physical activities, he said that such activities will keep the students in sound physical and mental health and helps in reaching great heights in life.

"Students should attain a high level of success by following Dr. Ambedkar as their model. The role of parents in a student's life is equally important. The parents should be wary and have to keep a constant watch on the activities and developments concerning their wards," he said.

ZP CEO K.M. Gayathri, in her address, said that the responsibilities of students will only increase after securing ranks by scoring a very high marks. The students should understand this and pursue their studies with utmost caution and responsibility, she observed.

"The students should realise that the atmosphere will change as they jump to higher classes and as such, they have to get acclimatised to changing surroundings and scenario. Every student must be mentally prepared for taking up new responsibilities as they surge towards achieving their set goals," she said and called upon the students to be persistent in realising their career dreams.

Ten top ranking SSLC students of the district were felicitated on the occasion.

DDPI H.K. Pandu and others officials were present.
